

Short Biography of Dr Osman Benchikh

Doctor in Physics, graduated at the French “Ecole Supérieure de Physique et Chimie” in Paris, France, Osman Benchikh, is responsible of energy and renewable energy at the Division of Basic and Engineering Sciences at UNESCO.

Dr Benchikh is author of several books and publications especially on renewable energies. He launched several international programmes and initiatives on renewable energies and contributed to several commissions and committees in this area. Dr Benchikh has initiated the Global Renewable Energy Education and Training (GREET) Programme as a global framework for capacity building and human resources development in renewable energies and set-up the Regional Solar Councils as frameworks for cooperation and partnership in the different world regions.